There has always been ruff times between Rick and I . Being the older brother and little sis just wasn't much friendly love growing up. I have had my share of bumps and even scares that will be with me all my life even now he is gone. The worse scare is on bottom of my left foot . Hot summer days and no shoes was common in the late 50's. While having cousin visit from up state and the promise of a swimming pool over the summer. Rick and two older cousin were to go to corner ice cream store and buy soda. I was fallowing them and was pushed by Rick into grass bare footed and stepped on a broken pop bottle . Cut foot down to bone and he and others went on and left me to make it two doors down to home. Need less to say no pool for me all summer and Rick and others having fun .
